Flour trial is essential but— it is not your work!

Flour varies from time to time in baking quality. This is because wheat continually varies according to soil conditions, etc.

Therefore, if baking results are to be constantly high, baking tests are essential. It is unreasonable to expect you to make these tests at your expense.

So from each shipment of wheat delivered at our mills we take a ten pound sample. This is ground into flour. Bread is baked from the flour. If this bread is high in quality and large in quantity, we use the shipment. Otherwise we sell it.

By simply asking for FLOUR bearing this name you can always be sure of more bread and better bread.

Keeping Her Hand In

Yes, sir, said the barber, deftly rubbing the lather into the scalp of the patron, I was ship's barber on a trans-Pacific steamer for five years until the ship was wrecked and I was cast away on an island in the south seas. I lived there for two years and never saw a human being, but when I was rescued I flatter myself I was a better shampooer than ever. I kept in practice all the time.

How did you manage it? asked the patron.

I shampooed the coconuts.

Waiter, asked the impatient customer, do you call this an oyster stew? Yessuh, replied Erasmus Pinkley.

Why the oyster in this stew isn't big enough to flavor it.

He wasn't put in to flavor it, suh. He's jest supposed to christen it.

Life's Ups and Downs

Now, I call that real foolish to climb that rock. What are you doing there anyhow.

I'm just pondering how I shall get down again.

Yes, ma'am, said Mary, I heard the bell.

But didn't answer the call; for well ye know I've noticed it long before—My company knock at the kitchen door.

A short answer seldom helps things along.

Such Is Fame!

The scene was a certain business place in the city of—well, not London. Into it there came a well dressed woman, who after glancing around, inquired of the assistant:

Have you Pepy's Diary, please? I do not see it advertised.

Sorry, madam, replied the young man, they've not sent us any this season. The fact is, madam, I think they've stopped publishing it.

The lady, uttering a "Thank you so much!" turned to the door.

Uncertain as to whether or not the young man was treating the lady seriously, I remarked:

Of course you know that the lady is confusing a very famous book with a scribbling diary.

He remained silent for a moment or two, and then said:

Is that so? I really had an idea that a firm named Pepys used to publish a diary.

LA GRIPPE'S VICTIMS

You Can Only Recover From Its After Effects by Enriching the Blood

Few diseases so shatter the health as la grippe, or influenza. Its victims all tell the same story. They are left despondent, tired, weak and wretched in every way. They have no appetite, ambition or strength; cannot sleep and suffer from headaches, backaches and nervousness. In this weakened condition lies the real danger. The body falls an easy prey to bronchitis, pneumonia, and even to consumption. Nearly every form of nervous trouble has been known to follow an attack of la grippe.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give the quickest and most thorough relief from the after effects of this trouble. They build up and purify the blood, drive the poisons out of the system and give strength and tone to the whole body. The following is an example of their power in cases of this kind. Mrs. R. A. McLean, Wentworth Station, N. S., says: "Two years ago Herbert E. Freeman, a young boy living with us, was attacked with la grippe. At the time he did not have a strong constitution, and we feared the trouble was settling on his lungs. He was not able to walk fifty yards without being out of breath, and his general vitality was very low. For months he continued in this position, notwithstanding all we did for him, and it was at this crisis that we got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for him. By the time he had used three boxes there was a noticeable improvement, and this was followed by his being able to do light work, and later he had all the strength of a growing boy. His cure was looked upon as remarkable by all who knew him, and I am giving the result in the hope that it may be of benefit to someone else."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Now, children, said the teacher to the junior class in arithmetic, if I had nine yards of cloth and used five to make a shirt and three to make a jacket, what would I have left?

A lot of scraps, promptly answered the little girl at the foot.

'Tis a Marvelous Thing.—When the cures effected by Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil are considered, the speedy and permanent relief it has brought to the suffering wherever it has been used, it must be regarded as a marvelous thing that so potent a medicine should result from the six ingredients which enter into its composition. A trial will convince the most skeptical of its healing virtues.

Marcella, who had been eating out of the window, suddenly began to laugh hysterically.

What in the world is the matter, child, asked her mother.

When I finished my carpet rug, Marcella explained, I folded it across my lap and carried it that way down the street to show it to Rosemary.

Well, what of it?

That was only three days ago, grasped Marcella, with a renewed outburst of merriment and now nearly every girl in the block is wearing a carpet-rug muff.

ARE YOU ONE OF THE UNFORTUNATES

WITH BACKACHE, HEADACHE AND THAT TIRED FEELING

If so, Listen to the Story of George F. Stander, and Use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Handsworth, Sask. (Special).—If you are one of those unfortunates who suffer from sore back, headache and that tired, listless feeling that makes work a hardship and life not worth living, the story of Geo. F. Stander, a well-known young man of this place, will interest you.

"For nearly ten years," Mr. Stander says, "I suffered from sore back and headache. I had a bad taste in my mouth in the morning, and I was always tired. I finally decided that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I got half a dozen boxes and before I had finished taking them I was completely cured."

"I advise anyone suffering as I did to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Healthy kidneys strain all impurities, all the seeds of disease, out of the blood. Weak kidneys leave these impurities in the blood, and the result is nervousness, tired feeling and pains and aches that often develop into Diabetes and Bright's Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills make weak Kidneys strong and healthy.

MUNICIPALITY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW

WEEDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the farmers of Mountain View Municipality that the Weed Act will be STRICTLY enforced during 1914. It has been noticed that weeds have been abnormally spreading year by year, and in order to check their growth or exterminate them, drastic measures must be taken in the public interest to check or eradicate them. Those who have weeds upon their land should plan before seeding the best way of freeing their land from them. Either summer-fallow or sow for green feed with the intention of cutting before the weed seed can ripen. If it is found that weeds are in your crop grown for grain you may expect to be compelled to hand pull them. It would be considered a favor if every farmer would send an unsigned postal card to the Secretary stating thereon the quarter sections in his neighborhood where he knows weeds are prevalent and also state the kind of weeds.

BY ORDER OF THE COUNCIL.

CLEAN up your back yards and lanes should be the slogan of the public now. Maybe it will be a little hard to accomplish this but think of the beneficial results it will have in keeping down the fly nuisance and consequently keeping the health of the citizens in better condition. In this respect it seems to us that each one of us is our brother's keeper—you or I allow this stuff to accumulate on our premises or lanes and our neighbor who perhaps is doing his best to keep his premises in a sanitary condition has to suffer through our neglect. Yes, dear readers, for the sake of a clean town and the health of the community, clean up!

THE current issue of the Alberta Gazette contains a proclamation to the effect that the south-east quarter of section 24, township 31, range 2, w. 5th, has been separated from the territory of the town of Didsbury and that said lands shall not be subject to taxation by the town for municipal purposes for the current year but shall continue liable for the payment of any debenture indebtedness incurred prior to the date set (March 4th, 1914). This land is the quarter formerly owned by Mr. Sanderman, northwest of town. The proclamation means that the land is now out of the town limits, which is perhaps as it should be, but the fact that the Town Act gives the right to the government to take such lands out of any town municipality without consulting in any way the Council of the town interested is rather high handed to say the least. The government allowed this land to be included in the town limits when it was incorporated and in all fairness should allow the town to put their side of the question before the government before taking the measures they have done to deprive the town interested of so much revenue. If the Act would allow the owners of such property to appear before the Council and state their grievance in regard to taxation then when it was found that the parties could not agree the government should step in and take up the matter. As it is at present such proceedings as are related can be taken and no notification whatever is made to the town that such action is contemplated, which is unjust. Neither the Secretary-Treasurer nor the Council have had any notification from the parties interested that such action was to be taken, consequently the proceedings appear rather like something that might be done in the land of the Czar.

If you only knew as much as we and those who have used them do about Rexall O.D.s, you would be as enthusiastic about recommending them as we are. They taste just like candy and act so easily and pleasantly that taking them is a pleasure. Rexall Orderlies have a splendid tonic, cleansing and strengthening effect upon the bowels. They help free the system and keep it free from the ailments that result from irregular or inactive bowels. They do this quietly, without griping, nausea, purging or excessive looseness. Evangelistic Meetings

Large crowds attended the opening of the evangelistic meetings held in the First Baptist church, south side, by Evangelist Alex Torrie. The church was well filled in the morning and in the evening every available seat was taken, scores being turned away. Mr. Torrie created a favorable impression and his stirring addresses were listened to with great interest. Mrs. Torrie is a most effective singer and the audiences were delighted with her selections.—Edmonton Journal.

THE WINDOW AT THE WHITE CAT

I ate a light lunch at Bellwood alone, with Bella to look after me. Oh, Bella, I called as she was going out. I want to ask you something about the night at the Fleming home when you and I watched the house. Didn't you hear some person running along the hall outside your door? About 2 o'clock, I think?

She looked at me stolidly. No, sir; I slept all night. That's strange. And you didn't hear me when I fell down the dumb waiter shaft?

Holy saints! she ejaculated. Was that where you fell?

She stopped herself abruptly. You heard that? I asked gently, and yet you slept all night? Bella, there's a hitch somewhere. You did not sleep that night at all. You told Miss Fleming I had been up all night. How did you know that? If I didn't know that you couldn't possibly get around as fast as the person in the house that night I would say you had been in Mr. Fleming's desk looking for—let us say, postage stamps. May I have another cup of coffee?

She turned a sickly yellow white and gathered up my cup and saucer with trembling hands. I put another line in my notebook. What does Bella know?

I got back to the city and found Wardrop waiting for me at the office. He seemed to have shrunk in his clothes, his eyeballs were bloodshot from drinking and his fair hair had dropped, neglected, over his forehead. He looked at me with dull eyes when I went in. He was sitting on my desk.

He says he's crazy—lost his think works, said Burton.

I didn't know you knew each other, I put in.

He says we do, Wardrop said wearily; says he used to knock me around at college. I'm not sick. It's only—better see one, Wardrop, I urged.

It seemed incredible that an innocent man would collapse as he had done, and yet at this minute I can name a dozen men who, under the club of public disapproval, have fallen into paresis, insanity and the grave. We are all indifferent to our fellow men until they are against us.

Burton was very well acquainted with the specialist to whom we took Wardrop.

I think I've got it all from Mr. Burton, said the doctor when he had sent Wardrop into another room. The idea is Munsterberg's, and I've had some good results. I'll give him a short physical examination, and when I ring the bell one of you may come in. Are you a newspaper man, Mr. Knox?

An attorney, I said. Press man, lawyer or doctor, Burton broke in, we all fatten on the other fellow's troubles, don't we?

We don't fatten very much, I corrected. We live.

The doctor blinked behind his glasses.

I never saw a lawyer yet who would admit he was making money, he said. The physical examination was very brief. When I was called in Wardrop was standing at the window looking down into the street below, and the doctor was writing at his desk. Behind Wardrop's back he gave me the slip he had written.

Test is for the association of ideas. Watch length of time between word I give and his reply. I often get hold of facts forgotten by the patient. A wait before the answering word is given shows an attempt at concealment.

On a table was an electric instrument like a small clock, and the first act was to attach to it two wires with small, black rubber mouthpieces.

Now, Mr. Wardrop, the doctor said, we will go on with the test. Your other condition is fair. I think you can dismiss the idea of insanity without a second thought, but there is something more than brain and body to be considered. In other words you have been through a storm and some of your nervous wires are down. Put this mouthpiece between your lips please. You see, I do the same with mine. And when I give you a word speak as quickly as possible the association it brings to your mind. For instance, I say noise. Your first association might be street, band, drum, almost anything associated with the word. As quickly as possible, please.

The first words went simply enough. Wardrop's replies came almost instantly. To light, he replied lamp; touch, brought the response hand; eat, brought Burton, and both the doctor and I smiled. Wardrop was intensely serious. Then—Taxicab, said the doctor, and after an almost imperceptible pause, road, came the association. All at once I began to see the possibilities. Desk—Pen. Pipe—Smoke.

Head. After a perceptible pause the answer came uncertainly, Hair. But the association of ideas would not be denied, for in answer to the next word, which was ice, he gave blood, evidently following up the previous word, head.

I found myself gripping the arms of my chair. Wardrop's eyes were shifting nervously.

Hot—Cold. White—Black.

Whisky—Glass, all in less than a second.

Pearls. A little hesitation, then box.

Taxicab, again. Night!

Silly—Wise. Shot. After a pause, revolver.

Night—Dark. Blood—Head.

Water—Drink.

Traveling bag. He brought out the word 'train' after an evident struggle, but in answer to the next word 'lost,' instead of the obvious 'found' he said 'woman.' He had not enough mental agility to get away from the association with 'bag.' The woman belonged there.

Murder brought dead, but shot following immediately after, brought staircase.

I think Wardrop was on his guard by that time, but the conscious effort to hide truths that might be damaging made the intervals longer from that time on. Already I felt sure that Allan Fleming's widow had been right. He had been shot from the locked back staircase. But by whom?

Blow brought chair. Gone—Bag, came like a shot. In quick succession, without pause, came the words:

Bank—Note. Door—Bolt.

Money—Letters, without any apparent connection.

CHAPTER XVI

Association of Ideas

Wardrop was going to the bad. When to the doctor's word, staircase, again he said scar, his demoralization was almost complete. As for me the scene in Wardrop's mind was already in mine—Schwartz, with the scar across his ugly forehead and the bolted door to the staircase open!

On again with the test.

Flour, after perhaps two seconds from the preceding shock, brought bread.

Trees—Leaves.

Night—Dark.

Gate. He stopped here so long I thought he was not going to answer at all. Presently, with an effort, he said wood, but, as before, the association idea came out in the next word. For electric light he gave letters.

Attic, brought trunks, at once.

Closet. After perhaps a second or two came dust, showing what closet was in his mind, and immediately after to match, he gave pen.

A long list of words followed which told nothing, to my mind, although the doctor's eyes were snapping with excitement. Then traveling bag, again, and instead of his previous association, woman this time he gave yellow. But to the next word, house, he gave guest. It came to me that in his mental processes I was the guest the substitute bag was in his mind as being in my possession. Quick as a flash the doctor followed up:

Guest. And Wardrop fell. Letters, he said.

To a great many words, as I said before, I could attach no significance. Here and there I got a ray.

Elderly, brought black.

Warehouse, Yard, for no apparent reason.

Eleven twenty-two brought the answer, given without a second's hesitation.

Eleven twenty-two C! He gave no evidence of having noticed any peculiarity in what he said. I doubt if he realized his answer. To me he gave the impression of repeating something he had apparently forgotten. The test was over.

It is believed that the largest kitchen in the world is that of the Bon Marche in Paris. It provides food for all the employees of the house, 4,000 in number. The small kitchen holds seventy-five quarts, the largest 375 quarts. There are fifty frying pans, each of which is capable of holding 300 cutlets at a time or frying 220 pounds of potatoes. When there are omelets for breakfast, 7,800 eggs are used. The coffee machines make 750 quarts of coffee daily. There are sixty cooks and 180 kitchen boys employed.

LIFE'S ROAD Smoothed by Change of Food

Worry is a big load to carry and an unnecessary one. When accompanied by indigestion it certainly is cause for the blues.

But the whole trouble may be easily thrown off and life's road be made easy and comfortable by proper eating and the cultivation of good cheer. Read what an Eastern woman says:

"Two years ago I made the acquaintance of Grape-Nuts and have used the food once a day and sometimes twice ever since.

"At the time I began to use it life was a burden. I was for years afflicted with bilious, sick headache, caused by indigestion, and nothing seemed to relieve me.

"The trouble became so severe I had to leave my work for days at a time.

"My nerves were in such a state I could not sleep and the doctor said I was on the verge of nervous prostration. I saw an advertisement concerning Grape-Nuts and bought a package for trial.

"What Grape-Nuts has done for me is certainly marvelous. I can now sleep like a child, am entirely free from the old trouble and have not had a headache in over a year. I feel like a new person. I have recommended it to others. One man I knew ate principally Grape-Nuts, while working on the ice all winter, and said he never felt better in his life."

UNIQUE FARM TRACTOR

Old Principle Applied in Construction of Handy Implement

A gasoline farm tractor which works on the principle of a squirrel cage has been invented and tried out by a Connecticut farmer. It consists mainly of a wheel, 5 ft. 6 in. in diameter, with a tread of 30 in., which rolls along the ground propelled by a 12-h.p. gasoline engine inside. The motor is mounted on four wheels fitted with gears and a clutch, like a tiny automobile, and propels the large wheel by continually trying to climb the inside surface of the wheel like a squirrel in a cage. The tractor was designed to draw cultivators, plows, and other farm implements, and can be driven between rows, up hills, and around sharp corners; but it can also be geared higher to draw a wagon or buggy on the road. Mounted on a frame or cradle, it can be used as a handy power plant for running corn shellers, etc. Built with a 52-in. wheel, this machine weighs about 1,250 lb., and reports of tests made with it indicate a high degree of efficiency.

A Water Trick

In Athens goats are marched to housekeepers' doors and milked before the eyes of patrons. But this system does not prevent adulteration. The milkman wears a loose coat with wide sleeves. Around his waist is a rubber bag filled with water, and a tube runs down his arm. As he milks he presses the tube and milk and water flow silently together into the milk pail.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a humming sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Louise de Chapporal

As a Child She Was Condemned to the Guillotine During the Reign of Terror

By JOHN L. TREVOR

During the French revolution among those who believed in securing certain reforms from the king was Edmund de Bouvier, a younger son of Count de Bouvier. He was enthusiastic for the cause until it passed into the hands of those who were infuriated, like wild animals, by the taste of blood; then he wished to withdraw. He was thinking of leaving France when he received the appointment of judge, before whom persons who were to be got rid of would be brought for condemnation.

De Bouvier was horrified, suspecting that the appointment had been given him with a view to sending him to the guillotine on a charge of sympathizing with the royalists. He would receive from Robespierre, who was then in control, a list of those who were to be condemned, and when they were brought before him it would be expected that he would do the bidding of his superior. If he refused he would be sent to execution himself. Nor would his refusal save those whom he was expected to condemn.

De Bouvier was young and wished to live. Indeed, he hoped, if his life was spared till this flame of vengeance had burned itself out, to be of service to his country. Summoning his resolution, he went to the courtroom the morning after his appointment, and, by doing what another would do if he did not, won the confidence of those in power, while at the same time he was on the watch for an opportunity to get out of France.

He had condemned most of those who were brought before him, standing up under the ordeal by summoning all his fortitude when a child, a girl, was brought before him. The judge flinched. Calling to him one who had charge of the prisoners, he asked him why one so young had been brought before him for condemnation. He was in charge of her. And she was led away among those who were to be executed.

These prisoners were to go to the guillotine the next day. That evening de Bouvier went to a clothing shop and bought a pair of loose trousers, a blouse and a red silk handkerchief. Then he bought a suit of boy's clothes. Taking these with him, he went to a baker's and purchased a dozen loaves of bread and one of those wooden vessels in which bread is carried by bakers in Paris. These articles he deposited in a room he had hired.

In the morning, putting a razor in his pocket, he sallied forth in the direction of the courtroom, where he was expected to send more victims to their long home. But turning into a street that led to the Place de la Revolution he went toward the guillotine. A rumble passed him, loaded with persons going to execution, and among them, he saw the condemned child. She, too, saw him, smiled and waved her hand.

He hurried on. When he reached the guillotine the victims were being unloaded. Stepping up to the executioner, he took from his pocket the parchment appointing him a judge and showed it to him.

"I condemned these prisoners yesterday," he said, "and I made a mistake. This child is not to be executed."

The executioner looked at the paper and said nothing. It was none of his business who was to be executed. De Bouvier then spoke to the officer in charge of the troops surrounding the guillotine, but did not show the evidence of his authority, for he was known to the officer.

"This child got on the list by mistake."

"Yes, M. le Juge."

"I am going to take her away."

The officer hesitated, then said that he supposed it would be all right, only he would expect the judge to take the responsibility in the case. This De Bouvier then spoke to the officer in charge of the troops, and he was led away.

He did not hurry till he entered a narrow street leading from the Champs Elysees, then walked as rapidly as the child was able. Taking her to the room he had hired, he shaved off his beard, then put on the baker's costume, tied the handkerchief about his neck, dressed the little girl in boy's clothes and cut off her long hair. Then, putting the receptacle filled with the bread on his head and taking the child by the hand, he went downstairs and out on to the street.

Meanwhile, a new batch of prisoners were brought to the courtroom to be condemned by Judge de Bouvier. The judge did not appear, but those in charge of the prisoners, thinking that he had been belated, waited for him. When an hour had passed without his coming, a messenger was sent to his lodging. He was not there. An announcement of the fact that the judge was not at court and could not be found was made to Robespierre. At once notification was given to all in sympathy with the revolution to look out for the missing judge and arrest him if found. An hour later word reached Robespierre that the missing judge had taken away Louise de Chapporal from the guillotine. The manager of the revolution was now certain that De Bouvier had disobeyed his order and had taken to flight. But he must pass the city barricades, and orders were given to the gatekeepers to look out for a man and a little girl.

De Bouvier's object was to head for the coast and escape to England.

When he reached the barricade, the soldier of the gate was about to pass him when a man darted up on horseback with Robespierre's order. The fugitive was refused a passage till he could be investigated.

"Investigated!" cried De Bouvier. "I have no time. I must carry this bread to my customers living outside the barricade."

"But I am ordered to stop Judge de Bouvier," replied the sentinel, "and a little girl."

De Bouvier laughed. "Do I look like a judge? And you are told to stop a girl, not a boy."

The sentry called a sergeant, who looked at the two wayfarers and consulted the order. For a moment the man and the child were between life and death. Fate threw the die, and life won.

"Go on," said the sergeant. "There's no need to keep persons from their bread."

The barricade once passed, De Bouvier found himself on the road leading toward Calais. But he had not gone far before he took to the woods for the day, and on reaching another road he changed his direction, resolving to head for the Belgian frontier. He peddled bread along his route, and when he had sold one lot he bought another. Couriers were sent out notifying the revolutionists on this route, the one usually taken by emigrants, to stop any young man with or without a little girl who answered the description of the missing judge. De Bouvier's two precautions threw those who were looking for him off his track. They did not know he was disguised as a baker nor that the child with him was a girl. Besides, the fugitives appeared to be commoners and not aristocrats, as was given out.

After several narrow escapes De

Bouvier, with his charge, crossed the border into a country where he was safe. He went to Belgium, where he turned Louise over to some emigre ladies, who on hearing her sad story agreed to care for her. Then he went to sleep, happy that if he had been obliged to condemn certain persons to death he had been able to save a child and had escaped with his own life.

When Napoleon was made First Consul De Bouvier returned to Paris. He entered the army and became a colonel. Louise de Chapporal did not return to France till the restoration of the Bourbons after the final fall of Napoleon. She was then a woman and began to hunt for the man who had saved her from the guillotine. Through those to whom he had committed her in Belgium she learned his name and sent him word that a lady wished him to call upon her. He did so and was informed that she was Louise de Chapporal.

Mademoiselle or, rather, the Countess de Chapporal regained her estates through the king and was very rich. She gave herself and her fortune to the man who had during those frightful days risked his own life to save hers.

ELECTRIFIED CELLULOID.

Pulling a Couple of Strips Between the Fingers Changes Them.

If you will take two thin lengths of celluloid, put them in contact and then suddenly and rapidly pull them between your fingers you will observe they both have become electrified—not only on their outside surfaces, where the friction of your fingers caused a negative electrification, but also on the inner surface of the celluloid.

The strange part about this is that one of the inner surfaces of the piece is positively charged and the other one is negatively charged. If one of them is slightly curved during the friction the convex one will be positively charged and the concave sided one will be negatively charged.

It seems, therefore, to depend upon whether the surface is concave or whether it is convex—depressed or extended—to produce negative or positive electricity. Even the most minute, imperceptible curvature is sufficient to give the expected result. It is also impossible to pull the strips of celluloid through the fingers without producing such strong electrification that one piece will support the other.

Even the vapor pressure of liquids is stronger at the convex surface than at the concave. If electrons are considered as particles of gas dissolved in solids—as they once were—or as negative electricity, there will be a greater tendency for the electrons to escape from the convex side, which therefore will be left positively charged. This also is in perfect accord with the latest researches upon electrons.

Interesting experiments can be made by following the above directions. Celluloid has peculiar properties for tests. New York Press.

Railway Trains in England.

I can prove in a moment by any traveler that our trains are infinitely more luxurious than the trains in England. But still, and notwithstanding, I say the English railway service is better. Why? Because it's more human; it's more considerate. You aren't driven and urged to stop lively and called at in loud, harsh voices and made to feel that you are being tolerated aboard something that was never made for you at all, but for the employees of the company. In England the trains are run for the people, not the people for the trains.—From Theodore Dreiser's "A Traveler at Forty."

Worse Yet.

"He's a frightful bore, your baron. Here he's been buzzing the whole evening long about Kant and Schopenhauer."

"You have my sympathy. For my part I detest philosophical discussions."

THE KAISER'S TREAT.

What an Invitation to His "Bier-abend" Really Means.

Kaiser Wilhelm occasionally gives a "bier-abend," an evening of informal entertainment, when beer is the only quencher of thirst. But an invitation to the Kaiser's "bier-abend" is paramount to a royal command to "bring your check book!" It is the emperor's way of raising money. All the money for the recently opened Kaiser Wilhelm Research Institute is supposed to have been raised in this way. A certain well known merchant prince had won the royal favor and was invited to drink beer at the palace. He found a group of wealthy persons around the table.

The emperor explained what he wanted and allowed the newcomer to fill out the first check. He began with $1,250, and the slip was carried around the head of the table for approbation. The Kaiser tore it to pieces. "If you start with that sum they will only be paying $12.50 at the end," he said. So the merchant prince wrote out a check for $75,000.

This was approved, and the money the emperor wished for his pet charity was raised. Soon after the merchant prince received another invitation to drink beer at the palace. This time some one else had to write out the first check, but it cost him a good sum, anyway.

Quite soon another invitation came, and the merchant prince was beginning to feel that his hobnobbing with royalty was getting to be too expensive a luxury. But an invitation from a king is as binding as a summons, so he went and found an anxious group of charity supporters sitting around the table. The Kaiser had not come, and the atmosphere was not exactly jovial. The emperor entered, beaming. "Good evening, gentlemen!" he said enthusiastically. "Tonight you will not have to pay for your beer!"—Raymond E. Swing in Chicago News.

PLANNING A NEW PARIS.

M. Delanney's Big Scheme For Improving the French Capital.

Since Baron Haussmann remodeled Paris in the days of Napoleon III. at a cost of $500,000,000 no such stupendous alterations as M. Marcel Delanney proposes have been considered for the French metropolis.

M. Delanney is prefect of the Seine. His scheme involves the widening of many streets, the destruction of unsightly shanties and the erection in their places of model houses to be paid for in part out of $40,000,000 already appropriated for this purpose by the municipal council, the limiting of the height of buildings to the width of the street on which they are situated and the laying out of forty-seven additional public gardens, making a total of 128 of these institutions, or more than London has.

"Le Grand Paris," as Delanney calls his proposal, also involves the development of the suburbs, where there will be a sudden acquisition of space after the fortifications have been destroyed. A large appropriation has already been made to wipe out these fortifications, which now serve only to provide lairs for the riffraff of Paris, but the prefect of the Seine wants a further $100,000,000 to construct parks and flower beds where the old defenses now are. He would convert the open spaces about the city and the hills of the Seine, Marne and Oise rivers into huge gardens connected by a promenade about twenty-five miles in length.

At present there are nearly 200 inhabitants to the acre in Paris, twice as many as in London. The construction of "Le Grand Paris" would give the city nearly six times as much territory as it has at present, reducing this congestion and thereby lowering rents and the cost of living.—Outlook.

Makes Gloves X Ray Proof.

M. Menard, chief of the radiographic and electrotherapeutic department of Cochin hospital, Paris, and M. Cousin, chief pharmacist of the same hospital, have succeeded in impregnating rubber with the salts of heavy metals, such as lead, in quantity great enough to make the rubber impervious to X rays. With the impregnated rubber they have made gloves which will prevent the hands of operators from being burned while administering the X rays.

Canal Zone Game.

As Gatun lake is the only large body of water in the canal zone it is expected that it will attract many birds on migratory journeys as well as become a habitation for native species. Along the Chagres river there is an abundance of small animals, and if the isthmian commission persists in its purpose to protect the game the country along the water course and the lake may become a considerable reservation.—Christian Science Monitor.

HONORED BY THE KING

CHIEF JUSTICE ARCHAMBAULT NOW A KNIGHT BACHELOR.

Quebec Jurist Was Born in L'Assomption, Que., and Received His Degree of Doctor of Law at Laval, Where He Later Became a Professor—Has Also Been Active in the World of Politics.

Among the distinguished Canadians who received New Year's honors from King George V. Hon. Horace Archambault, Chief Justice of the Court of King's Bench of the Province of Quebec. He was created a knight bachelor.

Sir Horace is an uncommonly able speaker and a painstaking judge. He was born in L'Assomption, Quebec, and received his early education in the college of that place. Later he attended Laval University, where he received the degree of doctor of law. In 1881 he became professor of commercial and maritime law in Laval and was batonnier general of the Quebec Bar in 1900. In 1906 he declined the Superior Court judgeship, and two years later was appointed puisne judge of the King's Bench of Quebec. From 1897 to 1905 he was Attorney-General and Speaker of the Legislative Council. While in political life he was a strict autonomist in Quebec affairs.

Sir Horace is in his 57th year, and is a brother of Rt. Rev. Joseph Alfred Archambault.

Monarch of Arran.

One of the most interesting of little kingdoms, within other kingdoms is an island off the coast of Scotland, not always suspected of having a monarch of its own.

Arran, this interesting island kingdom, is ruled over by a lady, the beautiful marchioness of Graham, wife of the eldest son and heir of the Duke of Montrose. It was as Lady Mary Hamilton that the marchioness inherited this little monarchy from the late Duke of Hamilton, whose only child she was. As sole owner of this sea-girt kingdom, the marchioness rules wisely and well over loyal subjects, numbering in all nearly 5,000. The island, which is some 19 miles long and 10 1/2 broad, with an area of 168 square miles, has had a romantic history.

Along the cliffs of the south coast there are several large caverns, one being known as the King's cave. Here Robert the Bruce is said to have hidden himself for some time, while it was from Brodick bay that Bruce sailed to Carrick on his expedition for the recovery of the crown. There are many interesting ruins, too, such as Lochranza, once the residence of the Scots kings. Then there are cairns, standing stones and stone circles.

Gun-Runners Busy.

British Indian troops have just left Bombay for the Persian Gulf. From all accounts, the gun-runners in the Gulf are once more at their game, and they seem to have entered the field with greater zeal than in the past. What is more alarming is the wide range of action of the smugglers. The whole of the Gulf littoral now seems to have become the hunting-field of the smugglers. In spite of the preventive measures adopted by the Sultan of Muscat, the smuggling of arms continues merrily and there seems no immediate prospect of its coming to an end. The Royal Indian Marine ships in the Gulf are fully occupied in blockading the arms traffic, and the mixed population of Arabs and Persians along the Gulf now openly resents interference on the part of Britain with what they regard as trade. Only the other day, a British ship was looted by the Arabs on the Tigris and the Mohammedan captain of the ship killed. If the Arabs and the Persians continue in an aggressive mood as at present, there will be no other alternative left for Great Britain but to increase the number of her troops in places on the Gulf.

"I'm so glad I refused that man. He's untrustworthy."

"Why do you say that?"

"He vowed he would pine away and die if I turned him down, and now look how fat he has grown!"—New York Journal.

THE EXECUTIONER LOOKED AT THE PAPER, told that she was Louise de Chapporal, the last of the family of the Counts de Chapporal, and it was to the interest of the revolution that the family be eradicated.

"But who ordered her to be brought here?"

"Citizen Robespierre."

"Is he willing to stand for the execution of a child?"

"No, M. le Juge. As soon as she has been dispatched it will be announced that a mistake has been made."

For a moment De Bouvier meditated whether to step down from his chair and surrender himself to be dealt with as an enemy to the revolution. But an idea struck him—not that there was much expectation of carrying it out without his own condemnation, but there was a faint hope. At any rate, there was hope for the child.

"How old are you, little girl?" he asked, with a pity in his voice he could not control.

"Seven," replied the child, with a smile.

"Have you a papa and a mamma?"

"Yes, but they have taken them away."

The judge bit his lip to retain his equanimity. He knew that they had taken her parents to the guillotine.

"That will do," he said to the man

(5) The said debentures and coupons shall be payable in Canadian Currency at the office of the Royal Bank of Canada, at Didsbury, Alberta.

(6) During the currency of the said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Town of Didsbury the sum of $728.06 for the purpose of paying in the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of the said debt.

(7) This by-law shall take effect on the 20th day of April, A.D. 1914.

(8) This by-law shall be submitted to the burgesses of the said Town of Didsbury qualified to vote thereon, and for the purpose of taking the votes of such burgesses thereon a poll shall be held at the following time and place, namely: On Friday, the 17th day of April, A.D. 1914, beginning at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon and continuing till the hour of seven o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the Fire Hall, on Osler Street, in the Town of Didsbury.

New Industry Will Locate Here

The Council met in regular session on Monday night last in the Council chambers, Mayor Atkins, Councillors Chamblers, Sinclair, Osmond, Reed, Stark, Moyle, Solicitor-Patterson and Sec. Treasurer St. Clair were all in their places.

Bills in the hands of the Secretary and OK'd were ordered paid, the total amount being $366 90.

A bylaw, No. 123, appointing a Board of Health for the Town was given three readings and passed. Those who comprise the Board are as follows: Dr. A. J. Weart, Medical Health Officer, Mayor H. B. Atkins, H. Reiler, F. Moyle, H. E. Osmond.

The Pyrene fire extinguishers ordered some time ago to take the place of those destroyed by fire are here. There are twenty four of these extinguishers which are very highly recommended and are so easy of operation that a child can use them, and the contents do not damage anything that it comes in contact with. Any person wishing to secure one of these extinguishers can do so on payment of $5 to Secretary St. Clair. The town retains a half interest in each extinguisher sold, the buyer either buying outright or returning same and receiving their money back if they leave town.

Chairman Sinclair of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Fire Chief Wood brought in a report regarding some chimneys which were defective or not according to bylaw, but it was stated that all of these had been remedied excepting one since the inspection had been made. The one exception will also be put into shape at once. The report also stated that the wooden lean-to, next to the Opera House, should be demolished because of its unsafe condition.

The report was discussed but it was decided the Council had no power to compel any person to pull down any building erected before the building regulations were put in force, but that the owner must put it into a safe condition. The balance of the report was adopted.

The matter of employing two night watchmen for the future was taken up and on motion it was decided that the services of one be dispensed with as the cost was too heavy, $5 per night.

Messrs. Walter O. Brown Co., Cast Stone & Clay Products, Calgary, wrote the Council in regard to starting up a patent cement block factory in town which would be a great help to some of those who are going to build in reducing the cost of their buildings as they would save freight, etc. They requested the Council to let them use the exhaust steam from the power plant and also supply them with water free from the same source, as their factory would be placed close to the power plant.

The matter was discussed and it was declared that as the project seemed a worthy one their request will be granted. The Council then decided to adjourn till Thursday night next as they could not complete all the business before them.

Our Home Women Have Beautiful Hair

Next time you go to the theatre or to the "movies" just notice, if you please, how many of our home ladies have beautiful hair—glossy, lustrous, and well-dressed. Then, if you will pick out five or ten of those whose hair seems to be particularly pretty and will ask them what they use on it, we feel sure that at least more than half of them will say "Harmony Hair Beautifier." It is fast becoming the rage with both men and women who are particular about the appearance of their hair.

Sprinkle a little Harmony Hair Beautifier on your hair each time before brushing it. Contains no oil; will not change color of hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleaning. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. H. W. Chambers, Didsbury.

The weather of the past few weeks has been very changeable with quite a lot of snow-fall, but the farmers are looking forward for the bright warm sunshine to take its place.

A number of people attended Mr. A. Crawford's sale in spite of the cold disagreeable weather. We hope Mr. Crawford is pleased with the returns of his sale.

Mr. O. A. Miller of Didsbury has moved on Mr. Crawford's farm about sixteen miles west of town. Mr. Miller states he is going into the cattle and hog business.

Mr. Lloyd Ruby has again started to school at Zella. We think it is a very wise plan, and wish him much success in the future.

Wilton Vipond and Archie May came up from Calgary and intend spending a few weeks visiting parents and friends.

The social and dance held in the Rugby school in benefit of the Cremona and Westcott fund was very well attended. The amount received being $43.50. The band played a number of fine selections which was greatly enjoyed by all present. After supper was over the majority of the people enjoyed themselves in dancing which lasted until late in the morning, many arriving home in time for breakfast.

SAWS MADE OF PAPER

Will Cut Wood Veneer Better Than Steel and are Widely Used

Circular saws made of paper, for use in making veneer and fine furniture, are being turned out in a factory in England. Thin plates of wood cut by these saws are so finely finished that cabinet makers do not have to plane them at all before they are used. Such saws were originally shown at an English exposition and are manufactured from compressed paper. Indeed, compressed paper of such hardness has been made in England that it has been used in place of building stone. Experiments in the manufacture of car wheels from compressed paper have been made for several years in America, but the product has never competed seriously with the ordinary steel wheels. It is only in the production of certain articles as the veneer saws that any advantage is found.

"How came you in the penitentiary?" I was drugged and robbed.

By whom?

Yes.

He told me to take iron.

Well.

The late Maurice Barrymore was the idol of the Lambs' during his lifetime, and even now the members of that club take delight in citing instances of his ready sympathy or sprightly wit.

One day, so the story goes, Barrymore was swinging down Fifth avenue when Sidney Rosenfeld, the playwright, rushed up to him, all excitement.

"Oh, Maurice," he wailed, "have you heard of my misfortune?"

"No, Barrymore sympathized, is there illness in your family?"

"Not that. My little boy, five years old, got hold of my new play and tore it to tatters."

"I didn't know the child could read," said Barrymore, and continued to walk.

No person reading this need ever again suffer long from Neuralgia.

Nerviline will quickly cure the worst Neuralgia, and Mrs. G. Evans, in her strong letter written from Russell post office, says:—"One long year, the longest of my life, was almost entirely given up to treating dreadful attacks of Neuralgia. The agony I experienced during some of the bad attacks was simply unmentionable. To be remedied by the score without permanent relief was mighty discouraging. At last I put my faith in Nerviline; I read of the wonderful pain-subduing power it possessed and made up my mind to prove it valuable or useless. Nerviline at once eased the pain and cured the headache. Continuous treatment with this magic-working remedy cured me entirely, and I have ever since stayed well."

Mrs. Evans' case is but one of hundreds that might be quoted. Nerviline is a specific for all nerve, muscular or joint pain. It quickly cures neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, neuritis and rheumatism. Forty years in use, and to-day the most widely used liniment in the Dominion. Don't take anything but "Nerviline," which any dealer anywhere can supply in large 50c. family size bottles, or in a small 25c. trial size.

Postmaster-General Burleson tells of an old Scotchman who was listening to former Secretary Wilson's lecture on the activity of microbes. The secretary of agriculture said: "There are microbes in the cabbage and microbes in the wheat and microbes in everything that grows."

The old Scotchman paid strict attention to the lecture.

When he left the hall one of his friends asked him how he liked the lecture.

"I don't see why the secretary of agriculture should put so much stress on what the Microbes done," he said. "They've done no more than the McGregors or the McPhersons, and there lives no such clan as the Campbells, anyway."

NERVES ARE SORE AND PAINFUL

Neuritis or inflammation of the nerves, is the most painful of nervous ailments. You may feel the soreness or tenderness throughout the body, or it may be confined to certain nerves. In the head it is called neuralgia; in the hips and legs, sciatica; in the face, tic douloureux, and in the chest, intercostal neuralgia.

The application of dry heat affords relief from the lance-like pains, but the essential thing is to build up the exhausted nervous system by the persistent use of such a restorative as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You will have other symptoms to warn you of the depleted condition of the nervous system, and this is your opportunity to restore to the body the energy and vigor of health.

While this great food cure is instilling new vitality into the starved nerve cells it is also forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and, by noting your increase in weight, you can prove beyond doubt the benefit being obtained by its use. This is Nature's way of curing diseases of the nerves, and it is the only way to obtain lasting benefit.

Husband (newly married)—Don't you think, love if I smoke it would spoil the curtains?

Wife—Ah! you are really the most unselfish and thoughtful husband to be found anywhere; certainly it would.

Husband—Well, then take the curtains down.

He had risked his life to rescue the fair maid from a watery grave, and of course her father was duly grateful.

Young man, he said, I can never thank you sufficiently for your heroic act. You incurred an awful risk in saving my only daughter.

None, whatever, sir, replied the amateur life saver. I am already married.

Jack (tolling with magazine)—It says here that there's enough phosphorus in a man's body to make forty thousand matches.

Ethel (mibbling a chocolate)—And not sand enough to make one.

A BRONCHIAL COUGH

is wearing and dangerous because the inflamed, mucus-filled tubes interfere with breathing and the fresh air passes through that unhealthy tissue.

Probably no other remedy affords such prompt and permanent relief as Scott's Emulsion; it checks the cough, heals the linings of the throat and bronchial tubes and strengthens the lungs to avert tuberculosis. This point cannot be emphasized too strongly—that Scott's Emulsion has been suppressing bronchitis for forty years and will help you.

Be careful to avoid substitutes and insist on SCOTT'S. AT ANY DRUG STORE. 13-77

Pa, a balloon's just landed in the apple orchard.

Good! I'll just run down there and get them to pick the apples off that high tree. I have been wondering how on earth I was going to get that fruit.

I see a prominent New York club woman says you can do a day's housekeeping in ten minutes.

Something like that. Ever notice the housemaid in a play? One swipe, and the room is in order.

Professor, inquired Farmer Jim, what are you digging for in my backyard?

"I'll pay you well," shouted the archaeologist. Great discovery! I've found the bones of a prehistoric mammal hitherto unknown.

Sorry professor, but that's an old wire bustle that I buried over 20 years ago with some other junk.

To Him Who Waits

Warwick—There's Wilkins. Have you read his latest novel? He has the heroine, an heiress, turn down the hero and marry the villain.

Wickwire—It seems as if that would be rather unsatisfactory.

Warwick—Yes but that's where Wilkins shows his talent. The hero then becomes the heroine's lawyer, and fortune comes to him, after all.

A man who had purchased some currant buns at a bakery was distressed, on starting to eat one, to find that it contained a fly. Rushing off to the bakery he made an indignant complaint, demanding another bun in place of the inhabited one.

"I'm sorry, sir," said the saleswoman. "I can't give you another bun, but if you will bring back the fly I will exchange it for a currant."

An "Interest" Instrument

A Hungarian citizen invented an instrument which shows instantly the amount of interest due on any given sum for any period at any given rate of interest. The instrument, made in the size and shape of a watch, is of very simple construction, and inexpensive. All that is necessary to operate it is to place the hands in the proper position on the dial and the exact amount of interest in each case is indicated on the face of the instrument.

Marcella—Mr. Beandrough seems to be greatly bothered with indigestion. Waverly—I should say so! He refused to attend a moving-picture show the other evening, because one of the scenes had a banquet in it.

Mother (reading)—It is always damp where they raise mushrooms. Little Lola—is that why they look like umbrellas?

Good Citizens Leave Town

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Kaufman left on Saturday night for a short visit to friends in Carstairs before proceeding to Nelson, B. C., where Mr. Kaufman has secured the position of assistant manager of the Hudson's Bay stores in that city. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman in the town and district while regretting their departure wish them every success in their new home. Since coming to Didsbury about two years ago they have shown themselves always willing to assist in anything for the betterment of the town, and were also of great assistance to the Presbyterian church and the Union Sunday school, in which Mr. Kaufman took great interest. Yes, we wish them every success, and hope that the ill luck which they sustained at the disastrous fire at New Year's, when Mr. Kaufman's loss of his store was complete, will pass them along and that they will not suffer from another similar experience for the rest of their lives.

The departure of another resident of Didsbury for some years has also taken place in the person of Mr. L. J.
Kallbfeisch, who has opened up a gentle furnishing store at Three Hills. Since dissolving partnership with E. G.
Reitzel Louie was employed with Mr.
I. N. Kaufman until the fire. He was
